

Specification and Claim Amendments

Applicant submits that the term “computer-readable medium” is inherently supported by the specification which describes computer systems that include memory devices. Accordingly, Applicant submits that the proposed claim and specification amendments do not add new matter to the claims or specification. Claims 1-8, 10-14, and 17-35 remain in the application.

All of the claims are in condition for allowance. Accordingly, Applicant requests entry of the claim amendments and allowance of the application. If any issues remain, Applicant respectfully requests a telephone call to resolve the issues.

Respectfully Submitted,
